RE: Software Engineer

Dear Google Manager,

I have been a supporter of Google for a long time and it would be a benefit to add to its development and future achievements in Software Engineer job. I think my scholarly qualities and energy for inventive arrangements will be a positive expansion to your group and objectives.

I appreciate development and love to try different things with various thoughts. I have an aptitudes for motivating and formulating unique, interesting ideas. I have cultivated software engineering, software debugging, and programming skills through diverse experiences. I believe that these qualities coincide with those that should be with a software engineer, which you are looking for. I devote time to work, and fun, positive and homework, so I can say with confidence that I have a good time management.

I have a pointed eye and solid hard working attitude, yet in addition like to encourage a component of fun. I also have experience in logical thinking, communication and problem-solving. I unequivocally accept that my inventive gifts will end up being an important asset for your association. I anticipate a meeting with you and the chance to make and develop as your new Software Engineer.

Sincerely,

Buzhbanov Ulan
